Baked Beanstalk Destroyed By Immense Giant

Giant bypass is turned into dust by huge clumsy 20-ton giant.

By Arlo Bizley

Yesterday evening, in the city of Doncaster, the giant (a criminal master mind) was finally captured sitting on the new modern bypass, along with a boy called Jack Hoff (age 11). The Giant was taken to court and declared 13 years in prison and forced to pay the bill to rebuild the bypass.

Jack's Fast Food Burger Van was a very popular café. That winter, the city council decided to build a bypass Jack and his mum (Lucy Hoff) where kept busy feeding all the builders. But when the bypass was finishes all the costumers went, it wasn't long before Jack and Lucy where nearly out of money. On his way to the shops Jack came across an old man who offered him a can of magic baked beans and Jack bought them with their last few pennies.

When Jack got home his mum was furious and chucked the beans out the window. The next morning, he woke up and saw a huge bean stalk, he went up with his dog Bella. At the top of the bean stalk he found a giant. There has not been any evidence of what happened from then on, but it was suspected that Jack had bribed the giant to jump onto the bypass.

In court further information was found, that the Giant was the serial bypass crusher who was being hunted down by the French, German, Spanish and Italian police force. The judge finally declared the giant was to be imprisoned for 13 years and forced to pay the bill of hundreds of thousands of pounds to rebuild the bypass. The giant argued: "It was that little boy he made me do it!" The judge also concluded that Jack was to have 1 year in prison.

Jack explained where he had got the beans from: "Well, I was just going to buy some milk and coffee beans, when an old man stepped out into the road and offered me some magic baked beans! I couldn't resist buying them since baked beans were my favourite food."

This Devious plan turned into a disaster, with an 11-year-old boy and 43-year-old giant being dragged into prison. This is said to be the first incident of an 11-year-old criminal
